"Quiet Clerk" Sought After 4th Female Corpse Found In Home

LONDON (AP)—Discovery of a fourth rotting female corpse today in a London "house of death" apartment spurred a Scotland Yard hunt for the quiet little clerk who had rented the lodging.

The bodies of three women were found wall-to-wall in a pantry in drab Notting Hill d strict Tuesday. The fourth, like the first three still unidentified, was under the floorboards of the same room.

One of the dead women was believed by police to be the wife of the central figure in the general manhunt underway—55-year-old John Christie, the last tenant of the apartment.

A police post-mortem indicated the first three women found—all between 25 and 30 years old—had been strangled.

Police with shovels and crow-bars searched other rooms and began digging in the garden patch behind the house.

Three of the women were believed to have been dead several months, and the other a few weeks.

The new discovery brought to six the number of violent deaths in the grim house in recent years. A woman and her son were murdered there in 1949.

families, told police neither Christie nor his wife had been seen for a month.

A Scotland Yard spokesman said: "It is thought Christie may be able to assist us in our inquiries."

The first three bodies were discovered Tuesday by Beresford Brown, a prospective tenant for the Christie apartment.

While looking over the place, he found a pantry niche which had been closed off with several thicknesses of wallpaper.

He broke through the paper and was horrified to find the nude body of a woman.

He called the police, who found two more corpses in the niche.

Police records revealed that Christie was the principal witness in 1949 at the trial of Timothy J. Evans, who strangled his wife and infant son in the same dingy house.

Evans was hanged for the double murder.

Neighbors said Christie, who worked for a truck firm, had a nervous breakdown soon after the Evans trial.

No Opposition To Reuther Seen

CIO Auto Workers To Elect Officers

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—It was a far cry from other days today when Walter Reuther and his three top aides in the CIO United Auto Workers faced only token opposition—if any—in their bids for re-election.

As the auto workers international convention went into its fourth day the only question about the reelection of the four head men appeared to be whether the feeble Reuther opposition would put up a candidate to force a three-hour roll call and prevent their choice by acclamation.

The 45-year-old Reuther, now seeking his fifth term as president, was first elected here in 1946. His then-powerful opposition, however, won all the other three offices.

Consolidating his position, Reuther was able to carry his hand-picked slate of Emil Mazey for secretary-treasurer and Richard T. Gosser and John W. Livingston for vice presidents in with him in 1947. The same foursome then was re-elected at conventions in Milwaukee in 1949 and Cleveland in 1951.

The once strong anti-Reuther faction was led by R. J. Thomas, George F. Addas and Richard T. Leonard. Thomas and Leonard now are on Reuther's CIO staff—carryovers from the late President Philip Murray's administration—Addas is out of the labor movement.

Thomas held the presidency for seven years before Reuther defeated him.

Since its defeat, the Reuther opposition has been weak and disorganized, steadily declining in numbers.

Death Of Queen Mary Won't Halt Coronation

Chinese Break Up U. S. Attack In Fierce Fight On Bloody "Old Baldy"

SEOUL (AP)—Fighting in a rain of American fire, Chinese Reds broke up a two-pointed U. S. attack today in the bloody trenches of Old Baldy.

At nightfall the Americans were back where they started, about 125 yards down the bare, windswept western front hill.

The fighting, now in its third day, was vicious and deadly.

One officer said the Americans drew Red fire "every time they popped their heads up."

As darkness fell, infantry fighting eased off while the big guns of both sides slugged it out.

The Reds swept over Old Baldy Monday night and the Americans have been trying to get it back since.

Attack Stopped Cold

One American attack force pushed off this morning toward a Red trench network on the northeast and was stopped cold.

Another lashed out toward the Northwest. A division officer said this one "got close" but was finally ordered back in the afternoon "when the going got too rough."

It was trench-fighting, a blaze of close-quarter grenade and small arms fire.

Associated Press Correspondent Stan Carter reported from the Seventh Division that American tanks pushed around the flank of the hill to cut up Chinese reinforcements.

As the two-day battle rocked on, the Chinese clung to three-quarters of Baldy, the Americans fighting uphill from a knob on the southeast corner.

Since the attack began Monday night, the red-dirt peak has been a scene of constant noise, blasts and death.

The Reds were reported taking heavy casualties but so were American and Colombian units of the 7th Division.

A stream of wounded moved to the rear. Helicopters shuttled from front to hospitals and back again.

The U. S. Eighth Army said Red bunkers on the hill were taking a savage pounding.

Ike To Decide On Standby Controls

Senate To Hear View On Emergency Powers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration said today the President would "accept" authority to clamp a 90-day freeze on prices and wages in an emergency but wants no detailed standby economic control law.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators called on the Eisenhower administration today to say whether it wants power to clamp on immediate economic controls, or a wage-price freeze, in time of possible war crisis.

Arthur S. Flemming, the acting defense mobilizer, and his aides were invited to lead off for the administration on bills being considered by the banking committee.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind.) said he hoped Flemming and subsequent witnesses from the executive departments would spell out clearly what the new administration wants on economic controls.

This includes not only the emergency freeze bill Capehart is pushing, but also sections of the present Defense Production Act which are to be continued.

Capehart has discussed his freeze measure with President Eisenhower and has reported the President "is quite favorable" to such legislation but wants Congress to decide whether to initiate it. Eisenhower told a news conference several weeks ago he would not ask for such legislation.

Capehart's bill would give the President power to slap on price, wage and rent ceilings for 90 days in a declared war emergency. During that period, Congress would presumably decide whether to enact comprehensive controls legislation.

$1,230 Needed In Red Cross Drive

A total of $12,557.01 has been collected thus far in the 1953 Red Cross campaign, Chairman Robert Heddleston reported this morning.

With six more days left in the campaign, Red Cross workers are intensifying their efforts to raise the $1,230.99 balance needed to reach the $13,788 goal.

Of the total, $7,000 will be retained by the Salem Chapter for work locally, while the $6,788 balance will go to the American Red Cross for its international activities.

Films On Atomic Blast To Be Shown

Four movies showing the effects of atomic blasts will be shown Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the American Legion Hall, sponsored by Company C, the Salem unit of the Ohio Defense Corps.

The movies, open to the public, are planned to demonstrate the tremendous damage which can result from an atomic explosion and best ways to survive the blast.

Government leaders have urged the public to study precautions to survive atomic warfare following the atomic tests last week which demonstrated the powerful destruction wreaked on a home by an atomic explosion.

The Ohio Defense Corps is the military component of the civilian defense organization.

Taft, Sparkman Assure Senate Okay Of Bohlen

Lopsided Approval Seen; Pair Study FBI File On Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reassurance by Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Sparkman (D-Ala.) today appeared likely to remove the remaining barrier to lopsided Senate approval of Charles (Chip) Bohlen to be ambassador to Russia.

President Eisenhower nominated Bohlen Feb. 23. The State Department sought quick Senate confirmation so he could be speeded to Moscow to watch developments in the wake of Joseph Stalin's death. But action has been delayed by the bitter opposition of an admitted small minority of the Senate.

Taft and Sparkman made a three-hour study at the State Department yesterday of a 25-page summary of an FBI loyalty and security investigation of Bohlen, and they were ready to report to the Senate shortly after it convenes today.

Found Nothing Wrong

Taft said he preferred to consult other members of the foreign relations committee before officially stating his findings. But the Ohioan, the Senate's majority leader, said he found nothing in the summary not reported previously by Secretary of State Dulles. Dulles had termed Bohlen "a good security and loyalty risk."

Sparkman, the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said he is standing by his previous support of Bohlen. The foreign relations group yesterday selected him and Taft to study the FBI report after Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) contended it contained much derogatory material.

May Be Challenged

Taft anticipated a possible challenge in the Senate of failure by him and Sparkman to demand direct accents to the FBI "raw" files. These are the original reports of FBI investigators and they contain unevaluated information, including rumors and gossip.

Taft said FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover assumed full responsibility that the summary correctly and completely reflected what was in the original reports of the investigators. Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) told the Senate Monday that summaries sometimes overlook pertinent details.

Sparkman called the information against Bohlen too "thin" to stand up. Some senators have described it as alleging that Bohlen has associated with persons whose morals are suspect.

Senators McCarthy, McCarran and Bridges (R-N.) made it clear that even a favorable report by Taft and Sparkman would not alter their opposition to Bohlen, a 48-year-old veteran of 24 years in the foreign service and a specialist on Russia.

McCarran and Bridges planned to tell their colleagues they don't believe the nominee should be confirmed because of his policy-making association with former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

McCarran said in an interview he won't be satisfied on the security and loyalty score until some committee hears testimony from R. W. Scott McLeod, State Department security officer, on what he knows about the FBI investigation.

Elizabeth II Decrees 1 Month Of Mourning

Queen Mary

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II today decreed a month's mourning for Queen Mary, thus carrying out the wish of her grandmother that nothing interfere with Elizabeth's coronation in June. Ending the period of mourning after a month will allow plenty of time for pre-coronation arrangements and activities.

Queen Mary died peacefully in her sleep Tuesday night at the age of 85.

Elizabeth, accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh, was among the descendants of Queen Mary who drove slowly up to Marlborough House today. All were attired in deep mourning. Their faces were heavy with grief and they bowed their heads as they walked into Queen Mary's home to discuss funeral arrangements.

Elizabeth and her husband stayed for 40 minutes. Other visitors included the Queen Mother Elizabeth, Princess Margaret, the Duke of Windsor, the Duchess of Kent (widow of Mary's fifth child) and the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

Duke Of Windsor Calls Alone

The Duke of Windsor—Mary's favorite son who renounced the throne in 1936 to marry Wallis Warfield Simpson, an American divorcee, drove up alone. In New York, the Duchess said she was greatly distressed by the news of the Queen's death and had cancelled all social arrangements. The Duchess had never been received by her mother-in-law.

The funeral probably will not be held at Westminster Abbey because of the coronation building work in progress there. The services may be conducted at St.

Paul's Cathedral in London or in St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle. Queen Mary will be buried beside her husband, George V, in St. George's Chapel, ancient burial place of Britain's kings and queens.

Months ago the stern-willed old grandmother, in speaking to friends about the coronation, said "nothing must interfere with it. Nothing."

Queen Mary had been ill for more than a month—with what her doctors described as a gastric ailment. The exact nature of her illness has not been disclosed.

Churchill Gave News To Parliament

Prime Minister Winston Churchill gave the hushed House of Commons—and the world—the first news of her death last night.

Holding a single sheet of white paper in his trembling hand, the dinner-jacketed government leader said in a voice breaking with sobs:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise to move adjournment of the House. I have with great regret to make the announcement that Queen Mary has died."

A few cries of dismay from public galleries broke the quiet.

Churchill told the House he would make an address of condolence to Queen Elizabeth today, then ask adjournment for the day "as an expression of our profound sorrow and respect."

Canadian Commons Also Adjourns On News

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent announced the death to the Canadian Commons and that House also adjourned.

As Churchill spoke, a solemn attendant a few blocks away posted the fourth and last medical bulletin of the day on the gates of Marlborough House.

Edged in black, it said simply: "While sleeping peacefully, Queen Mary died at twenty minutes past ten o'clock."

Four generations of Britons who knew and loved her as the proud symbol of royalty paid their tribute. Throughout the far-flung British Commonwealth, with 575 million inhabitants, flags were dipped and minutes of silence observed.

President Eisenhower sent his deep personal sympathy and recalled: "Queen Mary was a good, great queen. Free peoples the world over will mourn her loss."

Similar expressions from other chiefs of state poured in to her moribund granddaughter at Buckingham Palace.

"She was like your own grandmother," said one of the mourners who crowded in silence about her stately Marlborough House residence, where she died in London's foggy gloom last night.

"Poor old soul—and she wanted

Bill To Open Relief Rolls In Ohio Passes Senate Committee

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—A Republican policy bill to open public assistance rolls to the scrutiny of all has the approval of the Ohio Senate Finance Committee.

The committee voted late Tuesday night, 7-2, to recommend passage of the bill to require public quarterly reports of the names and addresses of those receiving public assistance.

A Senate vote on the measure sponsored by Sen. Ross Pepple (R-Allen) is possible Thursday or Monday.

The idea behind the bill, patterned after a similar law in Indiana, is to drive chiselers from the rolls by the threat of publicity. Only two Democrats, Sens. Frank Svoboda (Cuyahoga) and Charles Carney (Mahoning), opposed the bill in committee.

The Ohio Catholic Welfare Conference also attacked the bill, contending it would lower human dignity.

Committee action came at the end of a legislative day which saw:

The House approved, 95-37, a bill creating a new state Department of Highway Safety to take over the Bureau of Motor Vehicle les, the State Highway Patrol and the new bureau administering the drivers' financial responsibility law. The measure, which Gov. Frank J. Lausche has indicated he might allow to become law without his signature, now goes to the Senate.

The Senate completed legislative enactment of a bill designating the Buckeye tree as Ohio's official tree. The bill now goes to the governor for signature.

The two houses approved three other minor bills.

A Lesson In Community Enterprise

"It can't be done" was buried yesterday when ground was broken at Centennial Park for the city's new swimming pool.

There were smiles on the faces of interested onlookers and those of the Kiwanis Club who have practically succeeded in their $75,000 fund-raising campaign. To see the power shovel begin its task of digging the pool brought a sense of satisfaction to the leaders of the project and a feeling of gratitude to the citizens—young and old—of the community who have so willingly supported it.

There were those who said "it can't be done" when the fund campaign for a swimming pool was suggested last June by a group of Kiwanis Club members. Today they will admit they were wrong. Today they will confess they were witnesses to a demonstration of community spirit in action. It was that community spirit and the realization that Salem's recreational facilities for its children had been sadly neglected which put the project across.

Korean Investigation

After every other war the United States has fought it has been disclosed that the other side had been having problems, too. They were in all cases tougher than the problems of the United States, which has won all its wars.

The Communist Chinese do not have investigations. But they have doubts and misgivings. Some of them wonder why they're fighting in Korea at all. Their generals wish they had more ammunition.

There are experts who would be willing to testify something fishy must be keeping Chinese troops from winning the war. There are Chinese well-versed in current events who would suspect, if urged, that their country is being used badly by its allies of the Communist conspiracy, who will claim all the credit, if any, but are sustaining none of the casualties, which are immediate and heavy.

It must be obvious to a Chinese with any intelligence at all that the Korean adventure has misfired disastrously; that muddle-heads in Peking have grabbed a bear by the tail and can't let loose.

'If You Knew What I Know'

The behavior pattern which has made Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin the most controversial and most feared member of the U. S. Senate is on view in the Bohlen case.

Sen. McCarthy has claimed to have knowledge unfavorable to a fellow citizen's character. He has not revealed what that knowledge is, other than to murmur that it would be damaging if published.

He has started a rumor which cannot be proved or disproved, which already has damaged the public usefulness of its victim and which will continue to do further insidious mischief as long as the victim lives, regardless of what he does to live it down.

Sen. McCarthy is not always wrong, which has given rise to the shallow credo that since he sometimes is right he must not be criticized. If he catches an occasional burglar, the injury to an occasional passerby can be condoned: that is the defense offered of the technique known as "McCarthyism."

Sooner or later, the technique was certain to affront Americans with too much at stake to back away from a showdown. The Bohlen case has precipitated a showdown with Dwight Eisenhower, president of the United States, John Foster Dulles, his secretary of state, and Robert A. Taft, majority leader of the U. S. Senate. If McCarthy can damage these men by innuendo, he will have no more worlds to conquer.

Jalopy Control

It must be occurring to a great many members of the Ohio General Assembly that the auto-inspection bill defeated by a narrow margin in the House last week was in reality a proposal to control the jalopy menace.

Since this is so, there would be no sense whatever in forcing hundreds of thousands of motorists who keep their cars in safe repair to undergo a nominal inspection at least once and perhaps twice a year.

There is nothing mysterious or furtive about a jalopy. It can be spotted on sight. If Ohio needs a new law to empower police authority to keep a jalopy off the road unless it has lights, brakes and the customary number of wheels and apertures, that is a matter entirely apart from a statewide compulsory inspection of every motor vehicle at least once a year, with all the attendant confusion, expense and anxiety.

Instead of burning down a barn to get the horse out, that would amount to putting up a statewide structure of red tape to get the jalopy in — or at least to give its driver something to think about.

It would be a bad law a make work project for a lot of people who would turn into auto inspectors. If it comes up again, it should be turned down by a thumping majority.

Spiritual Diary for Lent

Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.—John 3:3.

I see the wrong that round me lies.

I feel the guilt within;

I hear, with groan and travail cries,

The world confess its sin. . . .

And thou, O Lord, by whom are seen

Thy creatures as they be,

Forgive me if too close I lean

My human heart on Thee.

—John Greenleaf Whittier

Today's Message

There is no better "self" until God has made it so. It is not given to human nature to think the thoughts of peace and purity. History may have changed, but human nature has ever remained the same. Its work has ever been destructive in thought-life and deadening in action. That is due to the presence of sin in our lives.

We must be "born from above" before we can appreciate the good and love it. The "Kingdom of Heaven" must be a state of mind before it can be anything else. If men, by the grace of God, can be made to think new thoughts, and to live new lives, then their tastes will alter, their surroundings will change, and the world may hope for peace.

We need to appreciate this today more than ever. There was never a time when the redemption of human nature was more imperative than it is today. A complete and immediate deliverance from the bondage of sin is the only thing that will keep this age from suicide.

—KARL FREDERICK WEITSTONE
Holy Trinity Presbyterian Church,
Philadelphia.

Today's Prayer

O Lord, our God, in this day of confusion and strife, when other helpers fail and comforts flee, may Thy Holy Spirit work in us a miracle of grace, and lead us into newness of life, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Bohlen Analysis

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Testimony Leaves Doubts As To Fitness

Charles E. Bohlen may be the man the President and the secretary of state think is qualified to go to Moscow at this time as the American ambassador because he speaks Russian and has some diplomatic experience, but a lot of Americans will wonder if someone else who was not entangled in the controversies of the previous administration might better have been chosen.

For the record of the part that Alger Hiss played at Yalta as given by Bohlen in his testimony either indicates that the late Edward R. Stettinius, in his book on Yalta, made a faulty presentation or that Bohlen is much more concerned with minimizing the part played by Alger Hiss than in giving the same picture that Stettinius did.

At the outset of his testimony to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Bohlen said the Stettinius book "is a scrupulously accurate account of what actually transpired at Yalta." But what Bohlen said later on isn't quite in accord with what the Stettinius book indicates.

Thus, Bohlen says Hiss dealt with United Nations affairs at Yalta "and confined his activities to that." Bohlen emphasized that Hiss wasn't present at the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meetings, but he seems not to have recognized the powerful role Hiss played as an adviser to President Roosevelt through Secretary Stettinius. Thus, Stettinius in his book writes of the Yalta conference:

"The next morning Harriman, Matthews, Hiss, Bohlen, and I met with the President on the sun porch overlooking the sea, to review our proposals for the conference agenda."

Sen. Knowland — reading from the Stettinius book — at this point in the hearing remarked that there were other references to Hiss "but that at least would seem to indicate that he did more than merely sit in on these large plenary meetings."

Bohlen said he thought the question asked him was about the participation by Hiss in the private meetings between Roosevelt and Stalin, and Sen. Knowland reminded him that the committee wanted to know more about the role that Hiss actually played at Yalta. It was then Bohlen said:

"Hiss was there, as an adviser to the secretary of state, not there as an adviser to President Roosevelt direct, and at these meetings my recollection is that Hiss' part in it dealt virtually exclusively with the United Nations business, which was, of course, a very big subject."

Secretary Stettinius in his book, on the other hand, speaks of reviewing with Matthews, Hiss and Foote on his way to Yalta "The questions reserved for subsequent discussion with the president at Yalta:

1. The establishment of a European High Commission composed of Great Britain, the Soviet Union, France, and the United States; 2. The treatment of Germany; 3. The Polish question; 4. Relations between UNRRA and the Soviet government; 5. The rights of American representatives on the Allied Control Commissions for Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary; 6. Iran; 7. China; 8. The Turkish Straits question; 9. International trusteeships."

Writing about the consideration of the Polish boundary, Stettinius says: "During one adjournment that afternoon the President asked me to get a lawyer to consult with him over the wording of the Polish boundary statement. I called Alger Hiss and while the two of us were trying to work out a solution for the President, Roosevelt suddenly looked up at us and said, 'I've got it.'"

He speaks of "Asking Hiss to do a quick summary of the State Department memorandum on the trusteeship issue," which he showed to Churchill and "seemed to satisfy him."

Stettinius had unbounded confidence in Alger Hiss, and the latter was in a position still — if he wished — to tell the other side what was happening on the inside of the American delegation.

Stettinius in his book, published in November 1949, notwithstanding the disclosures in the first Hiss trial, says he "Always had reason to believe that Hiss acted honorably and patriotically." He adds: "Shortly after I became under-secretary of state — October 1943 — with the approval of the President and Mr. Hull I called on the FBI to conduct a security examination of the State Department. Assistant secretary of state G. Howland Shaw served as liaison with the FBI during this examination.

"I never heard of any questioning of Hiss's loyalty from anyone inside or outside of the State Department or from the FBI during my term of service in the Department."

Stettinius is dead. Shaw is available to clarify the situation — in fact, Secretary Acheson appointed him recently on a special panel to review the case of John Carter Vincent, who by a 3-to-2 vote had been declared ineligible for loyalty reasons by President Truman's Loyalty Review Board.

What are the facts? Whittaker Chambers in his book says he told about Hiss in 1939 to assistant secretary of state Adolph Berle, who talked to President Roosevelt about it, and the latter pool-pooched it.

Then in 1941 the FBI took up the trail against Hiss. What was in the FBI file from 1941 on? Certainly all that Chambers later testified to must have been in that file, and hence there must have been some failure of the FBI information to reach Shaw or Stettinius, or both, in 1943.

It's a mystery that ought to be cleared up because, if the State Department high officials can be duped once, they can be duped again, just as the officials of the British Foreign Office have been duped by Communist agents in recent years.

So They Say

I don't even know whether Congress will handle the (tideland oil) situation competently. They can settle it for good or make it a lawyer's paradise all over again.—Former Secretary of the Interior, Oscar Chapman.

SIDE GLANCES

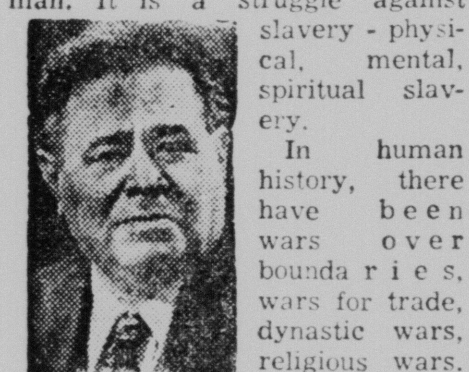

"But, Mister, I must Be About My Housecleaning!"

The Battle For Freedom

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The war of this century, in its hot and cold manifestations, is for the freedom of the individual man. It is a struggle against slavery — physical, mental, spiritual slavery.

In human history, there have been wars over boundaries, wars for trade, dynastic wars, religious wars. In this middle period of the 20th century, we are living through a universal war, affecting every human being on all the continents, for the control of the mind and the will of each individual person.

It is the first really total, all-inclusive war in human history. It is a product of an obscene concept of man, a distortion of the natural sciences which would reduce the human species to a thing, a conscienceless, soulless, meaningless entity, no different in worth than the cattle of the field, no more dignified than a snake that may be useful if it catches rodents but becomes harmful if it kills chickens.

WHEN MAN is reduced to nothing, slavery reasserts itself. In the 19th century, slavery was abhorred as an inhuman institution; in the 20th century slavery is restored as a system of life as a destructive competitor with free men.

In the political field slavery has reasserted itself in the reduction of the number of human beings who have a voice in the choice of their own government.

Fewer countries enjoy a parliamentary form of government in 1953 than did in 1914; in fewer countries is the secret ballot for the election of public officials now in vogue.

In a word, the remarkable stride toward political freedom of the 19th century and the first decade of the 20th century was halted by Fascism and Sovietism.

The one party system has reduced the people's voice to a frightened whisper.

It is not an unusual phenomenon in history for governments to seek to establish uniformity of thought within their realms. The most potent force for liberty was the acceptance of the doctrine that the individual could pursue in freedom any line of inquiry and could express his conclusions and ideas without restraint.

The limitations, apart from the libel laws, were that the thought should not develop into overt acts, which it did, nonetheless, in the form of vast social and political revolutions that altered the life of the peoples of Europe and Asia.

SUCH FREEDOM of thought is now not tolerated in most parts of the world. Undoubtedly the freest countries remain those in the orbit of the Anglo-Saxon tradition the United States, Great Britain and the British Dominions.

Even in those lands, the fears engendered by the co-existence, to coin a phrase of Stalinism produce a deep suspicion that certain expressions of thought are, in reality, designed to cover acts of subversion. And the horror of it is that the suspicion has a basis in truth.

Stalinism not only demanded in its own sphere an abject acceptance of the master's views as finally correct but it employed mechanisms of public opinion to abuse those who rejected its obscurities.

Thus, in lands where Stalinism is repulsed, as in the United States, those who do not serve what is dishonestly called liberalism which has come to mean nothing but a sympathetic approach to Stalinism, have been abused as Fascists, a term now equally incoherent.

EVEN IN universities, where objective inquiry and thought is customary, Stalinism has introduced rigidities of intellectual design. For instance, the rejection of the supernatural is not merely a protest against God; it actually works itself into an orthodox acceptance of biological hypotheses as proved truths, the scientist conforming as unthinkingly to accepted dogma as the theologian whom he accuses of superstition. The mind of man is put in an iron vise.

The madness of it all is that so many have so completely lost sight of freedom and its values that they have come to believe it to be a melodramatic expostulation. They suborn their minds by such meaningless words as democracy and security which can in no manner be translated into the language of our civilization.

In a word, they have spiritually capitulated to the enemy by betraying their own household gods. This is what our present war is about and it is impossible not to repeat that the essence of our resistance to our enemy must be freedom — freedom for the individual, not conformity to the mass or subjection to government.

Tom Swift Lives Again

By FERN GREENAMYER

Tom Swift is not dead, he lives again in a former plant office worker now marking time until snagged by the Army.

Remember the ubiquitous Tom, defender of the faith, champion of the weak, proponent of truth and right?

Whenever duty called, Tom found the courage to answer, secure in the belief that right conquers might.

In fiction Tom piled triumph on triumph as he constantly brushed shoulders with evil without ever himself becoming tarnished. Brought up in innocence, he yet instinctively knew how to outwit the worldly forces he encountered in his many adventures.

How well would Tom have fared if his creator could have compounded him in flesh and blood? This question comes to mind as one considers the fate of our "Tom."

Brought up by stern parents, adherents of any ultra-conservative religious faith, our "Tom" had little contact with any save members of his own select group.

A rarity in any religion, he lived his beliefs. Consideration for others was the rule. Common courtesy was common to him. Emily Post herself could have found no flaws in his treatment of others. He was a model boy: Kind, considerate, cheerful, willing, industrious.

Question: Who could ask for more?

Answer: The business world.

The above mentioned characteristics fit one admirably for Heaven, but in our imperfect world, one must be more than good. Good, bad or indifferent, one must be able to "deliver the goods" or the business world turns thumbs down. And to deliver the goods for a newspaper, one must have a knowledge of evil as well as good. The broader one's life, the better able he is to serve his paper.

This is not to imply that a roue is better qualified than a minister to be a reporter. He, too, would have his limitations if his knowledge were limited to his sensuous career. Experience need not be actual; many of our ablest writers gained their insight vicariously.

It is a tragedy for parents, teachers, ministers and other molders of character, to mistake ignorance for innocence. The more facts to our lives, the more interesting our personalities. The broader our knowledge, and with knowledge comes ability.

And here we are back to our "Tom." Restricted to his living and his experience, he thus was restricted in his knowledge and therefore ability. A fine boy, a good boy, well liked by his employers and co-workers, he was nevertheless unwanted as a business associate because he could not "deliver."

Tom Swift, you live again. And unhappily your reincarnation into the business world was not a fortunate choice.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

We have been inspecting the Fairfield, Connecticut, countryside and except for the armed Republican posse at each parkway exit there is nothing to indicate that Mr. Truman has been house-hunting there.

General MacArthur is already a resident and they must have so many things to talk over.

All I know is that if Harry is house-hunting he'd better mention it to Mrs. Truman before she hangs summer curtains.

And even then he might not get away with it. He busted up her bridge club for seven years and this you can't do to a woman twice in one lifetime.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

That Baseball Switch

It might be well for baseball fans to check on their home baseball clubs and see if they are still there. There was a time when a loyal rooster could go to bed at night knowing that the club would be found on the morning where he had left it. But there is no telling from now on. In Boston they are padlocking Bunker Hill, putting a guard on the Commons and asking an hourly check to make sure Milwaukee hasn't claimed Paul Revere, because some operator can do better with the horse in the Western atmosphere.

The old verse is being revised to read:
Here's to the City of Boston—
The home of the cod and the "beanie,"
Where the Lowells speak only to Cabots
And NOBODY SPEAKS TO PERINI.

The hard thing to figure out is why the American League indignantly rejected the plan to switch the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore because the 1953 season was too near, and the National League smilingly okayed the Boston-Milwaukee switch with the season's opening 72 hours nearer.

Is this a hint that the clocks in National League towns run slower, or that fans there care less about what time it is? The American League blocked Bill Veeck's transfer on a dozen reasons, none of which was even mentioned by the National League in permitting Perini to make his switch.

Evidently the winds are considered more favorable behind a club moving west than one moving east. Veeck was thrown out on an attempted slide from first base in St. Louis to second base in Baltimore. But Perini was given a "walk"—the longest walk in baseball history, clear from Massachusetts to Wisconsin! What goes?

It doesn't make sense to the average man, and even Congress is talking of an inquiry to see why the scorecard should say "Left on bases" in the case of Veeck, and "Intentional pass" in the case of Lou Perini.

It's been a drab and depressing season of congressional inquiries, and a probe into why baseball operators don't behave like other human beings might give a welcome touch of lightness to the spring season generally.

We would be especially interested in the answers to the question "Do you favor numbering the club owners instead of the ballplayers so there may be less confusion among the spectators?" Also "If it is okay for Perini to hit one 800 miles to left field, why isn't it okay for Veeck to knock one a similar distance in an opposite direction?"

Until today all the major league ball clubs had been supposed to have permanent places of residence. A fan never had to look into a phone book to see if it was still at the same old place.

The question, "Do the Braves still live around here?" or "Whatever became of the Browns?" was as never thought of.

There is consternation among rooters everywhere and we have even run across a Brooklyn fan who has a terrorizing fear that a day may come when he will go to Ebbets Field and be told, "The Bums are residing in Chicago now. Hadn't you heard?" The ballplayers might be tourists but the franchises never were.

The prospect of big-league ball clubs being "WOL" is hard to take, especially in the bleachers, and there will be a revolution in shirt-sleeves the day these loyal rooters show up at New York, Pittsburgh or Philadelphia and find the whole outfit has moved to the Canal Zone.

We trust and hope that the switches will not become epidemic and that all club owners will be prevented from moving the entire club during a pitcher's windup. May we never read a baseball story beginning, "The Giants went four innings against the Phillies in New York today but the last five innings were played between two other clubs in Yokomo, due to changes in the business situation."

A bill to license chiropractors has been killed by New York State, one of the few permitting them to practice without a test of any kind. . . . The motto is evidently, "Every backbone for itself."

The Braves were in Boston 82 years . . . That's a long time to wait for positive proof that a team is really going some place. . . .

It is now proposed that Uncle Sam send a weekly check to all families where there are three or more children . . . Well, for one thing, weekly check to all families where there are three or more children . . . Well, for one thing, when you have more than two small fry around the house, you have to get money for an extra video set or two. . . .

Jane Froman lost her $2,000,000 suit for the terrible injuries received in that Portugal airplane accident, the jury holding she hadn't proved "wilful misconduct by the pilot."

Ever hear of any airplane passenger looking for anything like that during a flight . . . And, if so, how could it be proven, Bub?

Yanks Blank Boston, 9-0, As Sox Defensive Tactics Fail

Braves Whip Athletics, 6-1; Cards Edge Reds; Phils Win

By BEN OLAN
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox, not long ago the vaunted power club in the American League, are going in more for defense this season. But the new tactics aren't paying off.

The Red Sox were shut out by the New York Yankees, 9-0, yesterday as Ray Scarborough and Bob Kuzava limited them to only four scattered singles. Outfielder Jim Piersall, third baseman George Kell and shortstop Milt Bolling were the only Boston players to hit safely.

The Sox now show a mediocre 8-8 exhibition game record.

Best evidence of Boston's decline in the long-distance hitting department is seen in their home run figures over the past three seasons. In 1950, the Sox sluggers hit 161. In 1951, they slumped to 127 and last year their output was only 113 homers.

So far this spring, Red Sox players have connected for the circuit only eight times with first base-

Olympic Stars To Compete In Chicago Meet

CHICAGO (AP)—A glittering array of Olympic performers, headed by Mal Whitfield, will be among 250 athletes competing Saturday night in the Chicago Relays, last big indoor track meet of the season.

More than 15,000 fans are expected at Chicago Stadium for the 17th annual event sponsored by the Chicago Daily News.

Whitfield, two-time winner and record holder of the Olympic 800 meter is entered in the 600 and 1,000-yard races.

In the shorter race, which the former Ohio State star has won for the last two years, the 500-meter point on the oval board track will be marked off and manned by timers. A similar arrangement will be made at 800 meters in the 1,000-yard event.

Whitfield thus will have a chance to better four records in the two races.

Other Olympic champions to compete include Bob Richards in the pole vault; Walter Davis, high jumper; Harrison Dillard, hurdles and dash; and Horace Ashenfelter, steeplechase winner. Ashenfelter is entered in the two-mile run.

Fred Dwyer of Villanova, winner of eight mile races this season, has the flu and will be unable to compete.

Nicholson Placed On Tri-County Team

LISBON — Towering Dean Nicholson, who paced Lisbon High during the season and into the regional tournament at Youngstown, was named to a position on the Tri-County League All-Star cage squad picked earlier this week by coaches.

Joining Nicholson on the first team are Ed Jordan and Steve Tucker of Sebring, Bruce Humphrey of Minerva and Tom Smolanovich of Poland. Ted Lisbon center and Smolanovich are juniors. The others are seniors.

Placed on the second team were Dick Woods of Lisbon and Jim Kline and Charles Leesh of East Palestine.

Other county cagers receiving honorable mention were Jack Cornell of Lisbon, Dick Gibson of Leetonia and John Herbert of East Palestine.

WELL DOONE — Looking as though he knew it was a job well done, Shore's Brownie Doone, owned by Mrs. Gerald Livingston of Quitman, Ga., snuggles up to Trainer George Evans after being named 1953 National Bird Dog over a field of 31 pointers and five setters at Grand Junction, Tenn.

Borrowed Goalie Stars In Hockey Playoff

CINCINNATI (AP)—The busiest player on the Grand Rapids Hockey team Tuesday night doesn't really belong to Grand Rapids at all; he is goalie Guy LeClerc, borrowed by the Rockets from Troy (O.) after their regular goalie, Doug Coxon, was injured last week.

LeClerc minded the Grand Rapids net against Cincinnati here as the first game of the best of seven championship series began in the International Hockey League.

The Rockets lost to the Mohawks, 5-3, but LeClerc starred in kicking out 35 other Cincinnati goal attempts.

The second game of the series is to be played at Grand Rapids tomorrow night.

MARCIANO WORKS OUT. — Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano of Brockton, Mass., does some heavy punching at a large bag in Chicago's Midwest gym during a workout for his championship bout with Jersey Joe Walcott on April 10 in Chicago Stadium. The champion is scheduled to return to his regular training camp at Holland, Mich., for final sharpening.

Araujo Favored Over Davis In Battle In Cleveland Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—George Araujo, seeking a shot at the lightweight championship, goes against Teddy (Red Top) Davis tonight with odds of 19-10 in his favor.

Bettors jumped those odds on the Providence, R. I., boxer from 8-5 Tuesday night.

Araujo, the No. 1 contender for the title now held by Jimmy Carter, never has been stopped in 51 bouts. He won 48, lost two on points and had one draw.

The National Boxing Association and the New York State Boxing Commission recommended that Araujo—if he wins—be matched against the winner of the April 24 scrap at Boston between Carter and Tommy Collins.

Promoter Larry Atkins hopes to bring that contest here. And says he has offered Carter $25,000 for the fight.

Davis has won 49 bouts, lost 45 and had two draws. So far this year he has lifted decisions from Fabella Chavez and Charley Riley.

Araujo this year has defeated Henry Davis and Paddy De Marco.

Davis once fought out of Zanesville, O., and now calls Hartford, Conn., his home.

CBS-TV will carry the bout across the nation starting at 10 p. m. (EST).

The referee and two judges decide Cleveland bouts on a round basis.

GOLDEN GLOVES WIN

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two Golden Gloves boxers who will compete in the National Amateur Athletic Union tournament at Boston next month won last night at the Talent Pool, Inc., boxing show. Welterweight Clyde Wagner of Niles defeated Andy Brewer of Painesville in the three-round feature and lightweight Tom Elder defeated Dave Cannon, a fellow Cleveland-er.

Q—No, Vince's 289 in 1940 was his highest mark in the majors.
Q—Which president started the practice of throwing out the first ball of the season in Washington? —Roger Kearns

Q—William Howard Taft, in 1910.
Q—I read where Hugh Duffy's 438 batting average in 1894 was the highest ever in the big leagues, but someone tells me three other players all topped the mark in one season. Can you clear this up? —Joe Wilho m.

Q—Duffy's .438 is the official high for one season. The three players who hit over that were Tip O'Neill (.492), Peter Browning (.471) and Danny Lyons (.459), but all compiled these marks in 1887 when walks were counted as hits. All Duffy's p-ints were the result of honest hits.

Q—What was Allie Reynolds' pitching record when he was with the Indians? —Larry Scott.

A—The Yankee right-hander won 51 and lost 47 between 1942 and '46 for Cleveland.

OST DEFEATS MARINES

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP)—Ohio State University Tuesday defeated the Camp Lejeune Marines 7-5 for the Marines first baseball reversal of the season. A three-run ninth inning rally brought victory for the Buckeyes.

Radiarts Fail To Unseat Top ABC Bowlers

CHICAGO (AP)—Radiart Corp., of Cleveland, ABC all-events champion, bettered its 1952 team total Tuesday night with 294, but still failed to make the top ten in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

The Cleveland team's 1952 total was 2914 and the quintet went on to score heavily in the minor events to take the crown with 9343.

The Radiarts shoot in the doubles and singles today and have to top the tremendous leading all-events total of 9479, owned by the Detroit Pfeiffers.

The Pfeiffers also top the regular team standings with 3181 and two of their members hold No. 1 spots in doubles and allevents.

Steve Nagy, "Bowler of the Year," paced the Radiarts Tuesday night, shooting 623, but this was 39 pins shy of his team effort last year when he started his march to the all-events title.

There were three changes in the top ten Tuesday. Gene Feger, of Bloomington, Ill., serving as a sub, came through with the highest series of his career, 690, to land 10th in the singles.

Dawson's "411" Club, a Negro team from Chicago rolled into a two-way tie for seventh with 2758, and Knickerbocker Motors, of Montello, Wis., gained eighth with 2755.

Rivera Expects To Boost Hit Record

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Jim Rivera, the Chicago White Sox center fielder, says a new batting style developed this spring may boost his average by about 80 points this season.

"Last season I dropped to .233 after batting .356 in the Pacific Coast League," he explained. "All I think I need this time is to get off to a good start and then I might hit about .335."

The 31-year-old ball-hawk seems well on his way with a hefty .394 to be among Sox batting leaders in the Grapefruit League.

Manager Paul Richards has always admired Rivera for his baserunning ability and defense play in the outfield. But his bat work was weak against major league pitching in his first year with the White Sox.

Initiate Inquiry In Violation Of Antitrust Laws

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Justice says it is investigating "charges of violation of the antitrust laws in the field of sports"—but is not planning an immediate inquiry into the case of the St. Louis Browns.

The Department also said, in a formal statement late yesterday, it has not ordered an immediate investigation of organized baseball.

The statement was issued after two Maryland congressmen wrote to Atty. Gen. Brownell asking him to look into the refusal of the American League club owners to let the St. Louis Browns move to Baltimore. One of them, Rep. Friedel (D), said he had been advised by the attorney general's office that a prompt investigation would be made.

The department acknowledged receiving the letters from Friedel and Rep. DeCereux (R), but denied that the attorney general had "ordered an immediate investigation into organized baseball" or into the club owners' action.

Its statement said the representatives "have been advised orally that their protests will be merged for consideration in connection with other charges of violation of the antitrust laws in the field of sports, which have been under investigation for some time."

Jenny Hecht Withdraws
Play Role In Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Jenny Hecht, 9-year-old daughter of writer Ben Hecht, has withdrawn from the Broadway play "M.dsummer," from which she was suspended a week ago.

It also was announced last night that other members of the cast of the Vina Delmar hit play at the Vanderbilt Theater have dropped their complaint against her.

The nature of the complaint, lodged with the Actors Equity Council, governing board of the actors' union, has never been disclosed. The charges reportedly concerned insubordination, an allegation denied by the child actress' father.

Ohio Faces Water Shortage In Summer Due To Low Rainfall

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Ohio faces a year low for this period with an average deficiency of a little less than two feet.

In the Miami River Valley gravel area there is shown a three-year low for this period with some wells showing a 10-foot deficiency.

In the Canton area there seems to be little deficiency in the water level in the older well fields. However, in the new northwest field the level is as much as 13 feet below the level at the same time last year.

In the Columbus and Chillicothe areas the water levels today are from three to five feet lower than the levels a year ago.

Youngquist warned the current conditions, while "somewhat alarming," should not be "construed to indicate a falling trend in water levels." He said it simply means there has been insufficient recharge this year which will probably result in low levels this summer and fall.

But it's a temporary situation, he said, and next year it may be just the reverse.

In Eastern and Central Ohio where most ground water supplies are developed in sandstone or gravel, observation wells show water levels to be at a three-year low for this date with deficiencies ranging from six inches to five feet.

In Northwestern Ohio where most ground water supplies are developed in limestone or dolomite, current reports show a three-

Just A Housewife

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The question of whether it be Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Throckmorton-Smythe. To put it in one lady's words, "Whenever I have to say I'm a housewife, it makes me feel mousy—and that makes me feel boiling mad, like a lioness. But what can I do? After all, I am just a housewife."

Well, some women are trying to do something about it. They are dignity, doesn't describe their important role well enough, and invites a sniffling condescension from the snobby.

Among the embattled hausfraus in this cause is Mrs. Norma A. Lee of Rutland, O.

"I feel that this name 'housewife' is not only a most inadequate one, but that it is actually an unjust one," she wrote. "It has a bad psychological effect."

The very word 'housewife' places the emphasis upon the house rather than the home, and gives the implication a woman is more concerned over dirty tracks on her clean floors than in her child's welfare.

"The name 'homemaker' places the emphasis upon the home, and implies so much more. The true homemaker makes a happy and successful home . . . Gives her family healthful food . . . Teaches her children to become good citizens ready to take their places in society and help make a better world."

The real argument against Mrs. Lee's crusade is that housewife is a natural heart-meaning word to all except snobs, and homemaker is a made-up word.

Too many occupations already are switching to artificial titles that sound a bit ridiculous. Janitors became custodians and now are building superintendents. Bill collectors are credit counselors and garbage collectors sanitary patrolmen. Before long traffic cops will be stationary street safety directors and mailmen will be traveling communications engineers.

A housewife could be called by a lot of titles—childherder, hearth-watcher, matekeeper, heartmate, doghouse supervisor, or paycheck guardian. She could even be called "homewife," although that might raise the question as to whether there was an office wife in the background, too.

But if the annoyed kitchen cuties will take one man's advice—well, instead of fighting against that term housewife, they'll fight for it. It has a lot of heart and history behind it, and no one ever ridiculed it except in envy or ignorance.

Chrysler Corp. Cuts Auto, Truck Prices

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp. cut the prices on all its cars and trucks today.

The automobile company, one of the "Big three" of the car industry, said the government's abandonment of price controls was a factor in its decision.

It was the first major price change in the auto industry since the removal of controls.

To the industry it came as something of a surprise in view of recent increased manufacturing costs.

Truck prices also were cut. Chrysler said these average $40.

President L. L. Colbert of Chrysler cited an increase in recent production by his company as compared to production last year under price controls. He said there has been a 32 per cent increase.

Flaxer, 89, was a prominent figure in the "State of Jefferson" movement. The whole thing was primarily a protest designed to win highway improvements in the rugged areas on the state boundaries.
